For Wannabes and newbies... ..

Sharon Briggs was the first to take advantage this form of instruction on the web and she also covers many of the more advanced methods <http://www.gagechek.com/slb/demo/demo.html>

Lorah Gross Techniques in pictures and video

<http://www.tatting.net/techniques.html>

Knot Transfer Videos

<http://personalpages.tds.net/~tatting/video/video.html>

Japanese site but good video - click on ring, chain & Split Ring

<http://teaange.hp.infoseek.co.jp/tatting/tattingf.htm>

From Joy, another way of manipulating the threads BUT please note she is teaching the moves in reverse order to what is normally used today. The half stitches will show the double stitch split from the front and the picots too.

<http://groups.msn.com/NeedleTattingTwo>

SJoys – Rings around the world – instructions for kids (shame she still hasn't published...)

<http://www.georgiaseitz.com/classes2001/fall2001/joy4.html>

Tammy Rogers – Needle Tatting techniques listed on the right

<http://www.frontiernet.net/~TammyRodgers/index.shtml>

And for about 8 years Georgia has been doing her ON LINE class. Covering many if not all techniques. You can link the past years lessons from here and register to join the class.

<http://www.georgiaseitz.com/>

She also now has three people who take the 4 week beginners class on her behalf.

<http://www.angelfire.com/planet/newtatters/lesson1.html>

From the beginners class you'll find many links to instructions for the various techniques and a new sessions starts in January see message # 8695 dated 18th December.

I apologize if I have missed anyone off. Happy Tats

Love, light & peace
